

DR. J. E. CARNE SERVICES TODAY

A PRACTICING PHYSICIAN IN DYERSBURG FOR 10 YEARS

Services were held at the Dyersburg, Tenn., First Methodist Church at 2 p. m. today for Dr. John E. Carne, Dyersburg physician and a Dyer native, who died at 10:30 Tuesday night of a heart attack. Burial was in Oakwood Cemetery, Dyer.

Dr. Carne, brother of Mrs. Marguerite Carne and Nathaniel Carne, of Dyer, was born in Dyer, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Carne. He had been practicing medicine in Dyersburg for the past ten years. He was 42.

Stricken while making the last of six house calls, which he began after closing his offices for the day early Tuesday night, Dr. Carne expired at the home of a patient before medical assistance could be rendered.

Following his graduation from Lambuth College at Jackson, Dr. Carne entered the educational field and became superintendent of the consolidated Spring Hill school in Gibson County.

He was graduated from the University of Tennessee Medical College in Memphis as a member of the 1947 class, and served his internship at the John Gaston Hospital in Memphis.

He took time out from his practice to serve two years in the Army during the Korean War.

He had a wide practice in Dyer county, answering the summons of the sick at all hours of the day and night, and responding to calls regardless of from whom or where they came.

He was highly esteemed in the medical fraternity, and took an active part in all affairs connected with the profession to which he was devoted.

He was active also in civic affairs. He was a member of the Methodist Church, of Dyersburg Post No. 30 of the American Legion and a member of the Kiwanis Club.

Besides his brother and sister, he leaves his wife, the former Miss Ruth Jones of Dyer, and two children, David and Nancy Carne.
